

WELCOME, KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Hundreds of Knights and Ladies Coming for Big State Conclave

Templars From All Parts of the State Begin Arrival Tuesday Afternoon—Special Trains, Chartered Boats and Automobiles Bring the Throng

FIRST RECEPTION AT BEECHWOOD

PARK TUESDAY NIGHT FROM 9 UNTIL 1

Corees of Knights Templar and their ladies from all sections of the state of Kentucky began arriving in Maysville Tuesday for the Seventy-fifth annual Conclave of the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar of the state of Kentucky.

This is the fifth time since its establishment that the city of Maysville has entertained the Grand Commandery Conclave. The last meeting here was in 1906 when Eminent Sir Thomas A. Keith was the Grand Commander and presided over the body.

Maysville will be crowded with visitors for the next three days. The visitors will represent the most influential and intelligent citizenship of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. They will come from every town of any size in the whole state. Thirty-seven commanderies will be represented and it is estimated that there will be fifteen hundred to two thousand Knights and ladies aside from their guests.

In addition to the Kentucky Knights there will be visitors from several states and the neighbor state of Ohio will be represented by about seventy-five Knights and ladies and will bring with them a brass band. The Portsmouth Knights will arrive here Wednesday morning on a special train over the C. & O.

Maysville Commandery, No. 10, known throughout the state for its hospitality, one of the most famous commanderies in the state, has done its best to prepare for a great conclave this year. The various committees have been working for weeks to have everything in readiness and nothing has been overlooked.

Sir Knight George P. Lambert, the chairman of the Decoration Committee, with the assistance of expert decorators, has the city in gala attire. Sir Knight C. P. Rasp, chairman of the Housing Committee has had a great job on his hands finding homes for all the visitors but the people of Maysville have kindly opened their homes to the visitors and everyone will be properly housed either in a hotel or boarding house or in a private family. Sir Knight Edward M. Smith, who is Eminent Commander of Maysville Commandery, heads the Finance Committee and has arranged to finance the conclave in splendid shape.

Sir Knight Ernest Gardner, chairman of the Committee on Transportation, has arranged for the parking of special trains, the mooring of chartered steamboats and the caring for automobiles. He will also have the big task of getting all visitors' baggage to their headquarters from the trains. Other committees have looked after the other details carefully so that nothing is lacking.

While the Grand Commandery, which will meet in the Asylum of Maysville Commandery in the Masonic Temple, does not open its sessions until 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the commandery functions begin Tuesday evening. The real celebration will be opened Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Market street band stand where Maysville's famous Cardinal Band will play an hour's concert.

The first reception and dance will be given at Neptune Hall this evening from 8 to 10 by DeMolay Commandery No. 12, of Louisville. One of the biggest events of the week will be the reception and dance given at Beechwood Park Tuesday evening from 9 to 1 by the Right Eminent Grand Commander and Mrs. Samuel Pearce Browning. TOBACCO TALK

Farmer Brown had a worried appearance as he went about his work for, though corn planting was finished and tobacco plants doing as well as one had a right to expect, his supply of ready money was about exhausted and there were necessities he and his family must have. He had never established a real banking connection and naturally hesitated to ask for a loan.

Quite a contrast to his mood was that of his neighbor Smith who, gaily whistling, rode up on his sorrel mare. "Heard the news, Brown?" he shouted, and without waiting for a reply went on. "The association is making another payment on our tobacco next Saturday and there is going to be a big celebration in town. We'll get as much as we did on the first payment."

"Hooray," shouted Brown. "That's great. It sure will come in handy for me and the Missus, for we have been going without things we needed for some time."

"No reason for that," replied Smith. "Why didn't you go to the State National Bank? Those fellows are always ready and willing to help us over the hard places."

"I don't know much about banks but I've been thinking I would start an account with the next money I get," said Brown.

"A good idea" was his progressive neighbor's response. "Now is the time and the State National place because Lige made possible this very distribution when he recommended that big purchase of pooled tobacco for his company. Get ready and go down with me Saturday and we'll both deposit our checks in the reliable old bank that never fails a loyal customer in a pinch."

THE STATE NATIONAL BANK, THE ONLY NATIONAL BANK IN THE COUNTY.

THE MOST FAMOUS K. T. BADGE IN KENTUCKY.

Herewith is reproduced the most famous Knights Templar badge in Kentucky, one that is known the whole nation over. It is the official badge of Maysville Commandery No. 10, more popularly known as the "5-15-22" Commandery.

This badge was originated at the Tri-Annual Conclave of the United States held in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, in 1877, when five valiant and magnanimous Knights represented the local commandery with the famous old Maysville band of 15 pieces and plenty of refreshments.

The late Eminent Sir E. A. Robinson was the last of the five Knights.

NOTICE FRIENDS OF AMERICAN LEGION.

A number of the friends of the American Legion boys having expressed a desire to contribute articles not received during the shower Friday afternoon, the Civic Committee takes this method of informing them that they can obtain a list of the aforesaid articles by phoning Mrs. Carolyn Russell at 697.

WEDNESDAY TO BE THE BIGGEST DAY OF BIG CONCLAVE

Great Parade of Knights Beginning at 11:30 Wednesday Will Be the Most Brilliant Display Seen in Maysville For Years.

Wednesday is the biggest day of the Knights Templar Conclave and for this one day there will be hundreds of visitors from all parts of the state who will leave for their homes immediately after the day's program.

The Grand Commandery proper does not open until Wednesday afternoon at the Masonic Temple and the great majority of the delegates will arrive in the city Wednesday morning, although many have been coming in all day Tuesday.

The public program of the conclave will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the First Baptist church. This service will be in charge of Eminent Sir Daniel Bates Shackelford, Grand Prelate. The address of welcome will be made by Eminent Sir A. Gordon Sulser, of Maysville Commandery, and the response will be by Eminent Sir Henry S. McElroy, of Marion Commandery. The annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. Sir Robert Lee Telford, of Richmond Commandery. A beautiful musical program has been arranged by a choir under the direction of Eminent Sir Peter Gordon Smoot. This service will be one of the most beautiful and impressive religious services yet held in Maysville.

Immediately following the public worship, the grand street parade in charge of Right Eminent Sir Thomas A. Keith will be formed and will move through the principal downtown streets past the band stand in Market street where the Grand Officers will review the annual demonstration.

At 1 o'clock Maysville Commandery will serve a luncheon at the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple for the Grand Commandery members. From 2 to 3 o'clock the annual competitive drill will be held on Third street between Market and Sutton. Several well trained drill teams will compete for a beautiful trophy given by the local commandery.

Following the drill will be a series of receptions and dances by various commanderies. From 3 to 5 Montgomery Commandery gives a reception at Beechwood Park. From 4 to 6 Corner de Lion Commandery gives a reception at the home of Judge and Mrs. A. M. J. Cochran. From 7:30 to 9:30 the Ashland Commandery gives a reception and Lawn Party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Cochran. From 7:30 to 9 Webb Commandery gives a reception and dance at Beechwood Park and from 9 to 12 Covington Commandery gives a reception and dance on the steamer "Morning Star" at the Market street landing.

POLICE WARNING.

COLLEGES AND RELIGION

In a recent issue of Harper's Magazine, Mr. E. S. Martin declares that the American college needs what the whole world needs most—religion. "If the colleges are to retain their importance they must be able to impart," he says, "spiritual guidance," and if they fail here they will lose their leadership.

These schools, for the most part, were originally founded for the purpose of giving educational advantages to young men and women in a distinctively religious atmosphere, and one prime qualification in an instructor was a Christian character, definite and vigorous. The atmosphere of these institutions in other days was permeated by religious sentiment and motive, and the students, coming from Christian homes, returned with their grip on the Christian doctrines and principles strengthened, to become leaders in the church life of the community, or to go into the ministry or the field of missionary effort.

As a college instructor writes in an article just published in Scribner's Magazine:

"In these latter days, somehow, that emphasis had dropped out. And not only is there a manifest lack of interest in the subject of religion on the part of the individual members of the faculty, but in some of our colleges a single course even, in the history or literature or philosophy of the Bible, in recent years, has been omitted."

"It is true that such courses are fertile fields of controversy; that many colleges have become involved in acrimonious disputes over the teachings of some of their professors of Bible. So some, authorities have taken the attitude that it is far better to allow this field to lie fallow. Fallow fields, however, usually grow weeds. And, although weeds are excellent fertilizer when plowed under on the farm, the yare not great thought-producers in the realm of the mind. In religious matters, as in every other field of human endeavor, a neutral or negative position can be assumed only with extreme peril. So it would seem that to offer no instruction in religious subjects, especially in the Christian philosophy and ethic, simply because it may lead to controversy, is to premise a logic which, carried to its conclusion, would afford sufficient reason for omitting instruction in every other field."

It is not so much a question, however, of instituting special courses of study in religion but rather of introducing into the life of the institutions of higher learning influences and ideals through the medium of the teachers and the regular class room instruction. Faculties will have to be inspired by Christian conception, men who guide the youth of America must be found who believe that the religious motive is the great dynamic, that character without reverence for spiritual realities and faith in God is incomplete, and that personal example is more than half of teaching.

As Mr. Martin says: "It is not the exclusive province of religious teachers to teach religion. It is the province of all teachers, and a teacher who cannot do it is by so much less qualified for his job."

SOB-STUFF

Attorney General Daugherty is not so easily stampeded as some men who have occupied his important position. Recently a group of women organized a parade of children to petition the President to grant a "general amnesty" to all so-called "political prisoners"—men who had been convicted of impeding the prosecution of the war. One of the children carried a banner which had been prepared for her bearing the legend "My daddy never saw me." All this war intended to win sympathy and distract attention from the plain fact that the prisoners have been found guilty, by the unanimous verdict of juries, of violating the law.

President Harding very properly referred the petitioners to the Department of Justice, where they were told that each application for a pardon will be acted upon separately and on its own merits solely, and that there will be no general pardon granted. That is good sound sense. Whatever may be the merits of one case, it should have no effect, favorable or unfavorable, upon another case. Whether a daddy has ever seen his daughter has nothing whatever to do with this matter. If he has not seen his daughter through fault of his, that is not a reason for granting him clemency. If the United States had not gone into the war, and having gone in, had not helped win the war, an invading army of Huns might have made this man sorry he had a daughter at all. The time for a man to think about his children is when he contemplates the commission of a crime, and the thought should act as a deterrent. If he will not think of them then, he ought not take refuge behind them when he is called to account for his defiance of the government which affords protection not only for him but for his family and friends.

President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty merit the highest praise for refusing to be misled into wholesale clemency for one of the most dangerous classes of criminals. Quite likely there are instances where a commutation of sentence might be proper, but the facts of the individual case and not maudlin sentiment should determine the action to be taken.

BY ITS FRUITS

The country is much less interested in the pronouncements of the Civil Service Reform League than it is in the manner in which the public business is conducted. If the Harding administration continues to cut expenses and reduce government payrolls, the taxpayers will merely laugh at the fulminations of protestants who never successfully conducted a business of their own but pose as authorities on how a large government establishment should be conducted. By its fruits the Harding administration will be judged. It is our guess that it won't be repudiated by a 7,000,000 plurality.

In one last desperate effort to drag the United States into European entanglements, the internationalists have at last begun to quote the former crown prince of Germany. The Lords and Ladies of the British Empire join with the Hun and the Bolshevik in the plea to the United States to come and bear their burdens, pay their debts, turn their grindstones, fight their battles, settle their quarrels, and become the world's great goat. It would be funny if there could be anything humorous in a spectacle so utterly ridiculous.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

"It is the difference between the fellow who talks all the time about what he has accomplished and the fellow who plugs along and lets the things he really does talk for him," said Uncle Ted in answer to Jack's questioning about the report of savings in money made by President Harding to Congress.

"I've heard a lot of people talking about the men who run our government at Washington," said Jack. "Some of them haven't said very nice things either. I had a scrap with Freddie yesterday because he said President Harding hadn't done anything to help hard times and that things were just as bad as they were and worse."

"Jack, I'm sorry," said Uncle Ted. "That you and Freddie should quarrel. You boys should learn to control your temper better than that. Of course, to a certain degree, I don't blame you for becoming indignant over these things. People who talk that way are not acquainted with the facts. President Harding and his advisors have really accomplished wonders in view of the condition in which they found the affairs of government when they took over the reins. Let me give you an example. If John Jones has a big store and he runs it for eight years spending and wasting money right and left; if he buys more goods than he needs and then lets it rot; if he runs the whole store as if he had all the money in the world with no thought of tomorrow, what condition do you think it would be in? Then suppose another fellow comes along and takes over the store because it is the wish of his friends in the community. Do you think on year he could have that store back to normal after all the waste and extravagance used in running it for eight years?"

"I should say not!" answered Jack. "Well, a Jack, that's the exact situation today with regard to our government. President Harding has worked earnestly and well. He has brought back the respect of other nations. He has considered our home problems long and intelligently. He has by firm resolution saved the country $1,600,000,000 in one year and caused $907,500,000 to be cut from the governmental expenses. This wonderful showing came about through the establishment of the budget system under the able direction of General Dawes. The budget is a business system and it has proved a great success. This system, first of all, is the reason for the great success in cutting down our expenses, together with President Harding's hammering away to bring about real results and the expert judgment and skill of Gen. Dawes as director of the actual work.

"Now there are a lot of people who don't seem to know, from President Harding's report which he sent to Representative Martin B. Madden, chairman of the House committee on Appropriations, whether the administration has saved $1,600,000,000 or $900,000,000 or what. It is very simple and clear if we study the following part of the President's letter. I am going to read it to you, listen:

"It will be noted that in the expenditures of the government for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1922," (and that kiddies, is the first year of the Harding administration) "after eliminating the estimates for estimates for the public debt, operations in capital funds and similar accounts, all of which tend to confuse our understanding of the actual cost of the routine business of government, THERE HAS BEEN A REDUCTION IN THE EXPENDITURES OF ADMINISTRATION OVER THE OUTLAY FOR 1921 OF $907,500,000. These highly gratifying figures relate to reduced expenditures which come under the influence of executive pressure, and do not include $700,000,000 of other reductions which are not related to the routine business of government. Compared with this reduction of $907,500,000 the director of the budget details $250,134,835.03 as the sum representing the savings and economies which may be fairly accredited to the new system of administration and the widespread commitment throughout the various departments to effect a more efficient and economic administration of the government's business. Of this sum about $12,000,000 represents postponed construction and maintenance which will PROBABLY BE UNNECESSARY UNDER THE REDUCED PROGRAM OF NEXT YEAR."

"In other words, kiddies," continued Uncle Ted, "A real effort to save has been made and proved successful as against reports during recent years of more money spent than we had. This is only the beginning of President Harding's plans to save money in the operation of the government. Plans are under way to bring some departments together and to wipe out some bureaus which are no longer needed. There is a plan, which may work out, to bring the War and Navy departments together under one head. This, of course, will take time but it all shows that the one big thought in Washington today is to SAVE. Taxes cannot be expected to come down at once with the great debts which must be met. But in time, this great effort to save will tell, not only on the amount appropriated each year by Congress to run the government but on our taxes. For this reason we must back up our government in this splendid work. Boost and not knock and we shall see what real results will come from a government run on a businesslike basis."

YOUNG MOTHER NOW STRONG

Her Mother's Faith in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Led Her To Try It

Kenosha, Wisconsin. — "I cannot say enough in praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My mother had great faith in it as she had taken so much of it and when I had trouble after my baby was born she gave it to me. It helped me so much more than anything else had done that I advise all women with female trouble to give it a fair trial about it. — Mrs. FRED P. HANSEN, 562 Symmonds St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

A medicine that has been in use nearly fifty years and that receives the praise and commendation of mothers and grandmothers is worth your consideration.

If you are suffering from troubles that sometimes follow child-birth bear in mind that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

The letters we publish ought to convince you; ask some of your women friends or neighbors — they know it well. You will, too, if you give it a fair trial.

35,000 Armenian Kiddies, American Trained, the Hope for Future Peace

Boy Scouts of Near East Relief Orphanage at Alexandropol, Armenia, where 18,000 youngsters are cared for.

The baseball diamond, the football gridiron, boy and girl scout organizations, and other institutions of the American youth will play their part in the final peace in the Levant, according to Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, who is now on a tour of inspection of the work being done by that organization in Transcaucasia.

"Behind the walls of American schools and orphanages, one finds the only tranquil spots in this whole troubled territory," he writes. Here, despite disorder, pestilence, and starvation, outside the gates, ambitious young Armenian boys and girls are making the best of the opportunities offered them by their American teachers. If only our work can be continued until these children reach maturity a new generation will arise to face the problems of the Near East with the benefit of the American training to help them. At present, however, we are confronted by the possibility of having to abandon them because of lack of funds. This will mean not only the wasting of what has already been accomplished but will also result in the death of the majority of these wards of American charity. Several hundred of them

Killed during a brief period last spring when the interior stations in the Caucasus were cut off from American food. On the other hand, a continuation of the full relief program can not help but mean a better, more peaceful region in the future.

Approximately ninety thousand children in Anatolia, Cilicia, and Syria, besides the 35,000 in Transcaucasia, are receiving American training at present, according to Mr. Vickrey.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeannie Price

New York. — Is it an indication that we are turning backward toward more romantic and less rushing days, that the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club this year will follow, as its flagship, a sailing vessel instead of a steamer? J. Pierpont Morgan's beautiful Corsair has for several years steamed through the waves in the proud position as leader for the cruise. This season, Harold Vanderbilt's Vagrant, a sailing vessel, will have that place. It seems rather nice.

New York City is beginning to worry about next fall, which is an unusual thing for it ever to do. But its situation begins to look pretty serious. The city's business life and prosperity depend upon its receiving a steady supply of coal. And unlike some cities, it must have two kinds. Owing to smoke laws, anthracite or hard coal is the prime necessity here. Now that the coal strike has been on for six weeks, coal users are beginning to become anxious and probably for the first time are taking an active interest in the controversy. They are completely astonished to find that there are two separate and distinct strikes—one affecting the bituminous fields and the other the anthracite. The strikes are based on different demands and are being dealt with by entirely different sets of coal operators. The demands are as different as the two kinds of coal. And New York is realizing that the summer won't last forever and that a real winter is promised a few months away.

The following ad which appeared in The Times the other morning demonstrates that even in Manhattan, pets are placed aside from riches and autos: "Lost — Reward and no questions asked if my pet monkey which disappeared with my automobile is returned; description, small white face, ring tail. Engstrom, 136 West 75th."

Mrs. Marna G. Palmater is treasurer of the Union Trust Company in New York. Doesn't that sound like a particularly masculine job, too!

"The Port of Missing Girls" could very well be a subtitle for Times Square. It is a strange thing of New York life that they almost always gravitate toward that vicinity, the very place where they are likely to be hit instead of missed. Detectives always take their stand on a Times Square corner when they are on the outlook for a missing girl, and just watch the faces that go by. "It's hard to tell them through their make-up," one detective was fretting the other day. "Some of them might as well be dressed up as Lew Dockstader for all the clow a detective can get by looking at their Times Square faces. But sooner or later if you just stand here and watch, you're pretty apt to find the lost ones."

—NY—
One of the best plays of the past ten years is back on Broadway. It is "Hindle Wakes," no wittentled "Fanny Hawthorne." At the time of the first production of this very modern drama, it caused considerable of a sensation for its "frankness" and for the unusual — or unusually honest — viewpoint of the girl who determines most of the action of the play. Today, it doesn't seem so startling. We have been educated up to realism and to honest points of view on the stage. Sileen Huban is excellent in the role of Fanny Hawthorne, the girl in question, a sullen, handsome, honest, mill girl, who refused to be a sentimentalist about herself; and Gordon Ash, as Alan Jeffcote does good work. Whitford Kano, whom we liked so tremendously in "The Pigeon," plays the part of Fanny's father — and we still like him as tremendously as ever.

—NY—
There is one postoffice in New York that is just what four-corners postoffice is supposed to be. It's a bit of "Main Street." It is in Chinatown, the Mott Street Postoffice, and it is situated in the corner of a general store, furnished with an old-fashioned coal stove, and has a sociable crowd that comes down for the mail every morning. Like any village postoffice, it is a news center. Those who receive no mail themselves, stay to help look over that of their friends who do and to exchange gossip. They watch the customers who come in to buy things at the store counter. Compared to any other sub-station in New York is automatic, mechanical, inhuman.

INCOME TAX AUDITOR STILL NEEDED.
Washington, D. C. — The United States Civil Service Commission states that although a number of examinations have been held, there is still need of eligibles to fill positions of auditor and inspector under the Income Tax Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, for duty in Washington, D. C., and in the field.

Another examination for these positions will be held on June 14 throughout the United States. Entrance salaries range from $1,800 to $3,000 a year.
Besides qualifying in accounting experience and practical tests, applicants must pass an oral examination to determine their personal fitness for the work.
Full information and application blanks may be obtained by communicating with the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or with the secretary of the Civil Service Board at the postoffice or courthouse in any city.

SEASONAL TIPS FOR GARDENERS. FARM AND HOME NEWS FROM OVER KENTUCKY.

By May 15 it usually is safe to plant lima and string beans, summer lettuce and radishes, sweet potato plants and eggplant, the latter having been started in the hot house or hot bed. Stringless Green Pod, Bountiful, Refugee Wax and Burpee's Kidney Wax are good varieties of bush string beans while Kentucky Wonder and Lazy Wife are recommended varieties of pole string beans. Good varieties of bush limas are Henderson's Bush Lima and Fordhook Bush Lima. Nancy Hall and Yellow Jersey are good varieties of sweet potatoes.

Small seeded lima beans will yield better in poor, damp ground than large seeded varieties, according to gardeners at the College of Agriculture. All lima beans do best in good warm soil, they say.

Anthracnose, one of the serious attacking beans, spreads rapidly from plant to plant if they are cultivated while wet. The disease causes sunken, dark spots with well defined margins on the stems, pods, leaves and seeds.

Best results are obtained with lettuce if the crop makes a quick growth. Growth may be stimulated by covering the plants with tobacco canvass propped up so that it does not rest on the plants. It may be removed after the plants have obtained sufficient size.

Early lettuce can be followed by radishes, some of the best varieties of which are White Vienna and Charters. These are the long type that do not get pithy as soon as the olive shaped ones.

Mr. N. H. Richardson, prominent farmer of Jersey Ridge, is slightly improved after a serious illness of several weeks.

In order to show their neighbors the value of corn and soybeans grown together and hogged off, 18 Meade county farmers will co-operate with the College of Agriculture extension division and County Agent B. B. McInter in conducting demonstrations along this line during the coming summer.

The following case is but one of many occurring daily in Maysville. It is an easy matter to verify it. You cannot ask for better proof.
Jno. T. Bramel, retired bookkeeper, 108 West Front street, Maysville, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great advantage to me and I contribute fourteen years of my life to them. It was some years ago that I found I had kidney trouble and suffered severely with it. After a long course of Doan's Kidney Pills I became well and had no trouble for many years. Just recently I noticed my kidneys were again out of order and my system was generally weak. I knew it was a return of the trouble. I did not lose any time in getting a box of Doan's kidney Pills and they have given me the same good results and I consider them a wonderful remedy." (Statement given November 15, 1916.)
On November 22, 1920, Mr. Bramel said: "I couldn't recommend a better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit they were to me when I was about down and out with the worst form of kidney trouble. I gave a statement many years ago regarding the merit of this wonderful remedy. My cure has been a lasting one."

EMPLOYMENT CONTINUES TO SHOW GAIN

President's Unemployment Conference Gives Out Encouraging Report.

President Harding's Conference on Unemployment, through its Secretary Edward Eyre Hunt, issued the following bulletin recently concerning the increase in employment through the United States:

"From all figures available, employment is showing a steady and sustained gain April reports are the most encouraging of the year and clearly indicate the upward trend of industry an business.

"Based on returns from the United States Employment Service, April has shown the greatest gain of any month in 1922. For every 100 jobs listed during the month there were 150 applicants, as against 182 in March, 205 in February, and 226 in January. This is a decrease of 33 per cent. in the number applying for work, during the first four months of the year.

"In April, 54 applicants for employment were placed for every 100 registrations, as against 45 for March, 41 for February, and 38 for January—a gain of 42 per cent."

These figures cover reports from 34 states and the District of Columbia, and include the principal cities.
